Introduction In this work, meeting the demands of the theme, comparative-historical classification methods are used. Scientific source materials form its subject. Globalization and accelerated exchange of information require knowledge of the language of international communication and, in particular, its special features and the use of terminology in the medical professions. In addition, of course, in terms of volume and relevance, such information significantly compares favorably with the information available in Russian or Kazakh. Knowledge of English allows the doctor to have an appointment with foreign patients in private clinics. Probably, if you work in a small clinic of a small town, only your compatriots will seek your medical advice. But, for example, in a private clinic of the capital city, cooperating with insurance companies, you can have foreign patients. If you plan to work or undertake an internship abroad, you cannot do it without knowledge of the English language.

Following, there are some methods, how learn English language fast and easily. In the early stages, the emphasis is on reading aloud. Reading texts are also simpler and easier to read. However, it should be noted that although the work in the early stages is mainly focused on the development of oral skills, it does not solve the problem of developing oral communication in English. She is only in the process of preparing for a real oral presentation. In addition, reading words beautifully and fluently will increase a student's love of learning the language. In addition, students will be introduced to The Present indefinite Tense, The Past indefinite Tense, The Future indefinite Tense is required to be familiar with verb tenses and to be able to use verb forms vividly in these tenses. Students learn that nouns are used in the singular and plural, that suffixes are added to the third person singular form of a verb in the present indefinite tense, and that interrogative, negative, and imperative forms of sentences are also introduced at an early stage. During the study period. In the middle stage of teaching English, the focus should be on using techniques that help to increase thinking, speaking, and initiative in reading and understanding larger texts. Students will be given homework assignments. Question-answer exercises are used to strengthen the student's speech, improve memory, and repeat the results. New words from the text are memorized. That's the way to play. In the middle stage, grammar is taught in more depth than in the first stage, and students are given knowledge, exercises and tests based on the rules of grammar. Computer and phone language learning programs are also great for elementary and middle school language learning. Also, showing more English subtitles and cartoons is an effective way to teach the language. At the senior level, independent work plays a special role, especially in a foreign language. The requirements for this course are different from those of the previous stages. The lesson is no longer based on oral speech, because at this stage most of the language material is studied passively (receptively). That is, reading comprehension plays a key role. The texts are also large in size and the language material is complex. Reading, speaking, listening exercises are held regularly. When organizing a lesson, a separate day is set for Reading, a separate day for Speaking, and a separate day for Listening. Homework is also more complex than previous steps. Speaking lessons include a 2-minute talk with a topic. Alternatively, text cards will be distributed to students. Each student gives their opinion on the topic on the card of their choice. The speech requires the use of previous combinations, phrases, introductions, new words, synonyms. If you want to learn a foreign language quickly and with quality, you should try to follow simple tips while reading. They are designed to reduce the impact of age-related changes in your brain, as well as help make the whole process as easy and invisible as children. For example, if you are learning new words, you should repeat them several times during a lesson, then the next day. Then reinforce the material after a few more days and finally after a week. The program can track which words you have learned and remind you to repeat them after a certain amount of time. At the same time, new lessons are built using learned material, so the knowledge you gain is solidly reinforced. For example, in a recent experiment, one group of participants learned French in the usual way, while another taught one of the core subjects in French. As a result, the second group made significant progress in listening and translating. We are all always busy and it is not easy to make time for full-time workouts. Therefore, many people limit themselves to 2-3 hours per week, which is specially allocated for a foreign language. However, it is better to do the workout with time, but every day. Our brains do not have a large buffer of random access memory.

If we try to gather the maximum amount of data in an hour, the wave will appear quickly. There are more benefits, but from time to time. Special things that allow you to train in any of your free time are very suitable for this. Therefore, be sure to complement your activities by consuming content that interests you in the target language. This includes listening to podcasts, watching movies, reading books and so on.
